Relational References: A Selected Bibliography of Research, Theory, and Applications, Second Edition

Linda M. Hartling Ph.D.
Jenny K. Ly B.A.
Najlla Nassery B.A.
Katherine P. Califa B.A.

Jean Baker Miller Training Institute at the Wellesley Centers for Women
Work in Progress

Work in Progress is a publication series based on the work of the Jean Baker Miller Training Institute at the Wellesley Centers for Women. Work in Progress reflects the Institute’s commitment to sharing information with others who are interested in fostering psychological well-being, preventing emotional problems, and providing appropriate services to persons who suffer from psychological distress. These publications also reflect the belief that it is important to exchange ideas while they are being developed. Many of the papers are intended to stimulate discussion and dialogue, while others are finished research reports.

Jean Baker Miller Training Institute

Founded in 1995, the Jean Baker Miller Training Institute bases its work on the Relational-Cultural Model of psychological development, which grew out of a collaborative theory-building process led by Jean Baker Miller and her colleagues. The Institute offers workshops, courses, professional trainings, publications, and ongoing projects which explore applications of the relational-cultural approach. At the heart of this work is the belief that the Relational-Cultural model offers new and better ways of understanding the diversity and complexities of human experience. For more information, please visit: www.jbmti.org.

The Wellesley Centers for Women

The Wellesley Centers for Women (WCW) conducts scholarly research and develops sound training and evaluation programs that place women’s experiences at the center of its work. WCW focuses on three major areas:

- The status of women and girls and the advancement of their human rights both in the United States and around the globe;
- The education, care, and development of children and youth; and
- The emotional well-being of families and individuals.

Issues of diversity and equity are central across all the work as are the experiences and perspectives of women from a variety of backgrounds and cultures. Since 1974, WCW has influenced public policy and programs by ensuring that its work reaches policy makers, practitioners, educators, and other agents of change.

The Wellesley Centers for Women is the single organization formed in 1995 by combining the Center for Research on Women (founded 1974) and the Stone Center for Developmental Studies (founded 1981) at Wellesley College. For more information, please visit: www.wcwonline.org.

Ordering Information

Work in Progress papers and other publications of the Wellesley Centers for Women (WCW) are available for purchase through the WCW Publications Office. For a complete list of current publications, visit our online catalog at: www.wcwonline.org/publications.

Publications Office - Wellesley Centers for Women
Wellesley College, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481
Phone: 781-283-2510  Fax: 781-283-2504

Unless otherwise noted, the authors hold the copyright to their WCW publications. Please note that reproducing a WCW publication without the explicit permission of the author(s) is a violation of copyright law.
Relational References:
A Selected Bibliography of Research, Theory, and Applications (2nd Edition)

Linda M. Hartling, Ph.D., Jenny K. Ly, B.A., Najlla Nassery, B.A., & Katherine P. Califa, B.A.

About the Authors
Linda M. Hartling, Ph.D., is the Associate Director of the Jean Baker Miller Training Institute at the Stone Center, Wellesley College. She specializes in substance abuse prevention and community/clinical psychology. She is co-author of papers on humiliation and author of the Humiliation Inventory, a scale to assess the internal experience of derision and degradation.

Jenny K. Ly, class of 2001, graduated from Wellesley College with a B.A. in psychology and Chinese language and literature.

Najlla Nassery, class of 2002, graduated from Wellesley College with a B.A. in neuroscience and Spanish. She is currently conducting genetics research at Brigham and Women’s Hospital in Boston. She is pursuing a career in medicine.

Katherine P. Califa, class of 2003, graduated from Wellesley College with a B.A. in economics and Spanish. She is now attending Stanford Law School.

Description
This is a selected bibliography of the emerging body of literature describing relational-cultural research, theory, and applications. As this list of references continues to grow, we plan to publish periodic updates. We urge authors of relational-cultural research to send copies of their materials to the following address:

Jean Baker Miller Training Institute
Stone Center, Wellesley College
106 Central Street
Wellesley, MA 02481

Table of Contents

Development, Relational Development ................................ 2
Diversity ........................................................... 6
Educational Settings....................................... 9
Family, Adolescents, Children ................... 10
Gender, Men, Couples ................................. 14
Health Care, Caregiving .............................. 17
Lesbian Issues ............................................... 18
Literature, Art, Creativity ............................ 18
Midlife, Older Development...................... 19
Power, Workplace Issues.............................. 20
Shame, Anger, Depression ............................. 22
Spirituality ..................................................... 24
Substance Abuse, Addictions, Eating Disorders .......... 25
Therapeutic Applications .............................. 26
Trauma, Violence, Sexual Abuse ..................... 31

(C)2003 Hartling, L; Ly, J; Nassery, N; Califa, K.
Development,
Relational Development

dynamics in college women. Unpublished master’s thesis, Tufts University, Boston.
across adolescence: A cross-sectional study.
Unpublished doctoral dissertation, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, Canada.
women’s perspectives on body piercing using developmental models of psychology. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, George Mason University, Fairfax, VA.
development: A relational perspective. Work in Progress, No. 48. Wellesley, MA: Stone Center
Working Paper Series.
Psychiatric Annals, 26(1), 24-28.
A relational approach. Work in Progress, No. 66.
Wellesley, MA: Stone Center Working Paper
Series.
psychology: A reframing of the strengths of women. In Women’s health: A relational perspective across the life cycle (pp. 30-36). Woodbury, MA: Bartlett.
stories: An exploration of women’s spirituality from the perspective of women’s psychological development. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, University of Massachusetts, Boston.
conflict: Finding common ground through dialogic process. The relationship between Gestalt resistance, conflict handling modes and mutuality.
Unpublished doctoral dissertation, Fielding Institute, Santa Barbara.
crossroads: Women’s psychology and girl’s development. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press.
psychosocial midlife development of walking-disabled women. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, Boston University, Boston.
Charlot-Swiley, D. (1997). The centrality of mutuality, african values and ethnic identity on the socio-economic functioning of adolescent girls.
Unpublished doctoral dissertation, Howard University, Washington, DC.
intellectually: Issues for college women. Work in Progress, No. 19. Wellesley, MA: Stone Center
Working Paper Series.
Conforti, R. J. (2001). An interview study of the role of computer-mediated relationships in the experiences and self development of a small group of women users of computer-mediated communication. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, New York University,
New York.
Dean, M. C. (2000). Adolescent daughters in care and their mothers. Unpublished master’s thesis, McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.
construction of the student-faculty relationship in a doctoral program for mid-life adults. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, Fielding Institute, Santa Barbara.
Raising relational boys. Work in Progress, No. 84.
Wellesley, MA: Stone Center Working Paper
Series.
Downes, M. (1982). Counseling women with developmental disabilities. In New England Association for Women in Psychotherapy Staff
(Eds.), Current feminist issues in psychotherapy.
Gerike, A. E. (1996). On gray hair and oppressed brains. In J. Quadagno & D. Street (Eds.), Aging for the twenty-first century (pp. 155-163). New York: St. Martin’s Press.
mutual psychological development questionnaire. Project Report, No. 1: Stone Center for Developmental Service and Studies.
human development: A puzzle, some evidence,
and a theory. In G. Noam & K. Fischer (Eds.), Development and vulnerability in close relationships
(pp. 237-261). Mahwah, NJ: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.
Cartography of a lost time: Women, girls, relationships. Paper presented at the Learning
From Women Lecture Series, Boston.

Development, Relational Development

Diversity

Diversity

Educational Settings

Family, Adolescents, Children

Demarest, L. (1998). The relationship between self-reported depression and levels of object relations functioning and perceived mutuality in adolescents. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, Seton Hall University, South Orange, NJ.

Family, Adolescents, Children

Gender, Men, Couples

Hinton, L. & Thielen-Wilson, L. (2001). Barriers to the implementation of gender sensitive policy and principles of service in Ontario’s mental health system. Women’s Mental Health Action and Research Coalition, Ontario, Canada.

Gender, Men, Couples

Healthcare, Caregiving

Lesbian Issues

Literature, Art, Creativity

Midlife, Older Development

Power, Workplace Issues

Hinton, L., & Thielen-Wilson, L. (2001). Barriers to the implementation of gender sensitive policy & principles of service in Ontario’s mental health system. Women’s Mental Health Action & Research Coalition, Ontario, Canada.

Shame, Anger, Depression

Demarest, L. (1998). The relationship between self-reported depression and levels of object relations functioning and perceived mutuality in adolescents. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, Seton Hall University, South Orange, NJ.

Shame, Anger, Depression

Spirituality

Substance Abuse, Addictions, Eating Disorders

Substance Abuse, Addictions, Eating Disorders

Therapeutic Applications

Therapeutic Applications

Therapeutic Applications

Trauma, Violence, Sexual Abuse

Trauma, Violence, Sexual Abuse

